

A Multi-tiered System of Support (MTSS) guides districts toward improvement efforts to best meet needs of each student, as well as the staff.

- Use of data in making decisions to guide student success
- Teams collaborate to make sure the needs of each student are met
- Staff learn best practices to better assist students
- Consider the overall well-being of students (academic, social, emotional, behavioral)
- Social and emotional needs help students learn self-management and awareness, responsible decision-making, relationship skills, and social awareness
